

Town of Windsor

Situated midway between the state capitals of Denver, Colorado and Cheyenne, Wyoming, the Town of Windsor is located along the northern Front Range of Colorado in western Weld County and eastern Larimer County. Windsor's city limits extend west to Interstate 25, a major north-south regional highway corridor, with Highways 392 and 257 crossing through the center of town. Windsor is centrally located within the regional triangle formed by Fort Collins to the northwest, Loveland to the southwest, and Greeley to the southeast.
